

Q.N.1. List the different types of religious Practices that you find in your neighborhood. This could be different forms of prayer, worship of different gods, sacred sites, different kinds of religious music and singing, etc. Does this indicate freedom of religious practices?

Ans: Do it yourself.

Q.N.2. Will the government intervene if some religious group says that their religion allow them to practice infanticide? Give reasons for your answer.

Ans: Yes, the Government can intervene if some religious group says that their religion allows them to practice infanticide. This is because the Indian Constitution clearly states that the Government has the right to intervene if there is a threat to social harmony. Also, killing an infant is a crime and the judiciary is the only authority that can punish a person to death and no other religion or person can commit the crime of killing someone.

Q.N.3. Complete the following table:

ANS:

Objective	Why is this important?	Example of a violation of this objective
One religious community does not dominate another.	It is important because the Constitution gives the right to religious freedom to all and if it is not provided there may be chances of riots and a disturbance of harmony in the country.	Stopping the people of a particular religion to celebrate their festival
The state does not enforce any particular	It is important so that every individual in a	India is a country where people from different religion nor take away the religious freedom of individuals.	country has the right to follow the religion of their choice. This is what makes the nation a secular country.	castes and religion reside.

That some members do not dominate other members of the same religious community.	Religion cannot be divided on the basis of wealth or creed. Hence, it is important that no member dominates other members from the same religion. Following their religion is the right of every individual.	Distinguishing between upper-class and lower-class

Q.N.4. Look up the annual calendar of holidays of your school. How many of them pertain of different religions? What does this indicate?

Ans: Do it yourself.

Q.N.5. Find out some examples of different views within the same religion.

Ans: Some examples of different views within the same religion are as follows:

1. Hindus worship different idols of Gods and Goddesses.
2. Muslims are divided into Shia and Sunni
3. Followers of Lord Mahavir are called Jains

Q.N.6. The Indian State both keeps away from religion as well as intervenes in religion. This idea can be quite confusing. Discuss this once again in class using examples from the chapter as well as those that you might have come up with.

Ans: Non-interference in religion by the Indian State: Following examples make it clear that Indian State keeps away from interfering in religion: (i) This Indian State has no religion of its own. (ii) It does not allow any government institution display anything which promotes any religion. All this has been done to promote true secularism in India.

Interference in Religion: In order to see that all the citizens enjoy the freedom enshrined in the Fundamental Right of Equality, the Indian State has sometimes to interfere in religion, for example: (i) The state has banned untouchability in order to end the age-old religious exclusion and discrimination against lower castes. (ii) Wearing of turban is essential to the Sikh religion, so the Sikhs have been permitted not to wear helmet as asked by the law.

Q.N.7. The poster alongside highlights the need for 'Peace'. Refer to textbook for the poster. It says "Peace is a never ending process. It cannot ignore our differences or overlook our common interests." Write in your own words what you think the above sentences are trying to convey? How does it relate to the need for religious tolerance?

Ans: Peace is loved by all. All religions preach peace, non-violence, humanity and brotherhood. Peace is needed for everyone-for the sake of security, property protection and for living with honour. 'Peace' is a human phenomenon which is for the protection of all. Violence is to be condemned by all of us.